DIAMOND MINES.

The Dangerous Process by Which the Priceless Gems are Obtained.
The famous diamond fields near Kimberly, South Africa, comprise four famous mines. They are now easily reached because of the extension of the railroad from Cape Town to Kimberly, and a correspondent, who has recently been over the ground, thus describes the process by which the valuable gems are obtained: The soil, he says, in which the diamonds are found in these mines is called in miner's phrase "blue," from its color, and I have never heard that geologists or mineralogists have attempted to give it a scientific name.
This blue appears to be a tough dry mud of volcanic origin, sometimes hardened into absolute rock. It is blasted by dynamite and drawn to the surface by aerial tramways, and then carried to the depositing floors; for so tenuous is the "blue" that it requires to be weathered for from three to twelve months before it will give up its treasure, and finally washed and sorted.

Let us accompany it through the whole process. The courtesy of the manager of a mining company places every thing at our disposal of the visitor, and after inspecting the engine-house and the powerful hoisting-engines you take your seat in an iron truck, which travels on small wheels along the aerial tramway. An electric bell sounds in the engine-house, and you begin to descend, not without an uneasy glance into the abyss beneath, and sometimes of the nerve of your guide, a smart young Englishman, who sits on the frame of the truck, with his legs dancing in space, and avails himself of the momentary rest to fill and light his pipe. The heavy steel ropes on which your carriage travels are firmly anchored in the floor of the mine, and you arrive in safety at the bottom.

No sooner have you quitted your conveyance than another truck, filled with litter, runs up on rails and is tipped into it, when it again ascends; and so the work goes on. The scene at the bottom of the mine is remarkable. Scattered over the irregular surface are, perhaps, two thousand Kaffirs, well-made men, stark naked and black as ebony. These men drill the blasting holes under the orders of white miners, work on the boom ground with pick and shovel, and then tip the trucks, take up and relay the tramways as the levels alter, and do all the hard work under white overseers, who are directed by the claim manager. To a stranger the scene is weird and novel. The roar of the pumping engines, the resounding blows of the heavy hammers on the steel drills, the jarring noise of the iron trucks and their tipping, and the wild appearance and unearthly shouts of the perspiring Kaffirs, combine to make up a scene of a lunging glance upward, and hush with inward by the sound of the bell above, which proclaims that the day's work is done. The ascending trucks now carry up the white overseers and officials, while the Kaffirs, carrying their black up precipitous paths and hanging ladders, and in a few minutes the mine is silent, and apparently deserted. Then the bell rings again, giving the signal to fire the blasts, and solitary figures, white and black, about the mine, with tiny sparks, and then making for the appointed shelter place. A few minutes more and the cannonade begins. The explosions shake the solid ground on which you stand. The blue fog into the air or falls in the shape of a fine mist, and the smoke clears away, the dust settles, and again the bell rings, as the "night shift" of miners and Kaffirs go ascending down to their work. The blasting takes place at six and twelve o'clock, and the noise once more is still. The smoke
the bell rings, as the "night shift"

PRAIRIE SOILS.

How They Can Be Improved by the Cultivation of Grasses and Clovers.

The native grass that covers the prairies in these portions of the West where there is considerable rain-fall affords excellent food for stock during several months of the year. It does not, however, spring up sufficiently early in the season to afford good food when animals are first turned out to graze. It is also likely to become thin after it has been eaten off close for several years.
Many farmers who desire better pasturage than that afforded by native prairie grass break the soil, and after raising flax, corn and small grain on the land a few years, seed it down to mixed grasses and clover. These are cut and cured for hay till most of the clover and timothy disappear, when the land is devoted to grazing purposes. It takes several years to obtain good pa-ture in this way and calls for a large expenditure of time and money. If the land is nearly level and the soil of the farms, an excellent pasture may be obtained by sowing the native soil and introducing a mixture of improved grasses and clovers, and by giving it an occasional top-dressing it may be kept productive for many years.

A more economical method of obtaining a good pasture, however, is to introduce the improved grasses and clovers on the native soil. The labor required to effect this change is small and the outlay of money is confined to the amount required to obtain seed.
The ground continues to produce food for stock till the new-fledged plants have obtained a start. It can be prepared for the seed by burning it over during the latter part of summer, a calm day being selected for the purpose. The heat will destroy the roots of the native grasses that are near the surface of the ground, and thereby leave a place in which the seed can germinate. A scrubber or ironwood can be employed to good advantage to break the soil and to increase the seed to rest on mellow soil.
But a small amount of earth is necessary to cover the seed, and it should not be buried deeply. The seed may be sown on the scratched surface of the ground and the first rain will wash a sufficient amount of soil over it to afford the best conditions to secure germination. A very loose soil is unfavorable to the germination of small seed.

The grasses and clovers to be introduced on a native prairie soil should be selected with reference to the character of the soil and the elevation of the surface. If the soil is of a heavy uniform quality and the surface nearly flat, a mixture of timothy, red-top, orchard and blue grass, with common red and Alsike clover, will insure a most valuable pasture. If the surface is uneven, a mixture of timothy, red-top, orchard and blue grass, with common red and Alsike clover, will insure a most
uneven, a mixture of timothy, red-top,
valuable pasture.

Blue grass has no superior for land abounding in lime, and which is un-derlaid by a heavy layer of limestone.
It requires several years, however, for the plants to become of a size to occupy the soil, and the very hard and dry character of the soil is a serious obstacle. Once introduced, however, it will remain in the ground for an unlimited time, and will afford more food for stock than any other kind of grass. Orchard grass is very valuable for a pasture.
It stands very early in the spring, and will stand constant feeding without injury, will produce more food than any other kind of grass, and requires no cultivation, and is preferred by all kinds of stock. It will grow in soil of a heavy character, and is not adapted to land that is very moist or very dry. It is not a good grass to introduce on land that is likely to be required for cultivation, as its nature is to form hocks and to make an uneven surface, which is very hard to break. When introduced by the plow it does not decompose like the sod formed by the roots of most grasses. Timothy, especially when mixed with other grasses, makes an excellent fodder plant, which springs up early in the season. As the seed is much cheaper than that of orchard or blue grass, it can be introduced at a comparatively small expense.

White clover is a very valuable plant for a pasture, especially one in which sheep are kept. As the seed is expensive, few farmers can afford to sow much of it. It is desirable to make a little go a long way. It is a good plant to sow in a field, and to allow the plants to spread over the adjacent ground, as they will by means of their creeping branches. If the droppings of cattle be broken up early in the spring and sown about a pinch of white clover seed can be planted on the ground that was covered by them and a good stand be obtained. The grass roots that were covered by the dung will be likely to be killed, while the soil will be very rich. The plants produced on a piece of land a foot in diameter will in a few years extend over a large space. In introducing grasses and clovers into the native soil it is best to commence with a mixture of the prevailing wind comes, as it will be in scattering seeds, when the plants are old enough to produce them, over the rest of the pasture land. Red-top and blue grass furnish, if they are not mown, a large amount of seed which is scattered by the wind over land in the vicinity. —Chicago Times.

Sunflower Seed for Fowls.

I grow sunflower seed for chickens, and find it excellent, in fact the best thing we have tried. I mix two quarts of the seed with six quarts of oats, shelled corn, or any small grain. If the fowls are housed, spread litter on the floor, and scatter the seed among it to give them exercise in picking it out, and that each may get a proper share. This amount is given to twenty-five fowls twice a week. We gather the sunflower heads in a wash tub, spread them in the sun to dry, and shell them on a dry day by beating with a stick.
If some of the heads are a little green, scrub them seeds out with a curry-comb. Once planted, sunflowers resist themselves by what seed will naturally scatter upon the ground. If it is desired to rid a plot of them, let the fowls run on the patch, and they will pick out the seed, and scratching for the seed. —Cor. Prairie Farmer.

fool. He was not wiser, and he died "Sherid's Sale." —Pittsburgh Sun.

—Say, Mr. Gogglescope, what do you come to our house so often for?"
Gogglescope (patronizingly): "Now, Tommy, you must ask your sister Clara that, she knows the best of the trade in just ask her." "Well, I did, and she said she'd be best if she knew." —Es-—Bertie, aged nine, is a great admirer of athletic sports. His cousin Lizzie, being asked to enter the matriculation exam, a family council was held upon the subject. Everything had been satisfactorily settled except the gloves, upon which a discussion arose. Bertie finally being appealed to rather awkwardly, he said, "No, no, no, I'm prompt and eloquent response: "Get boxing gloves!" —Pittsburgh Chronicle.

CHANGE OF WORK.

A Very Satisfactory and Beneficial Form of Recreation.

Change of work is one form of recreation, because, it may be presumed, the new employment occupies a different portion of the brain, and the one that has worked obtains rest. Monotony of occupation is always irksome, no doubt because certain portions of the brain are exclusively occupied. A hard-worked man should think no form of recreation beneath his notice; he is fortunate if he has a really satisfactory hobby or two.
Talleyrand's prognostication of the kind of old age that awaited the man who did not know what to do with his time, and applied to amusements and hobbies in general. Perhaps his author would scarcely have recommended what for an old man had been able to force the bewildering meditations of his own mind, in the way of playing the game. In this, as in other things, the fendancy is to turn play into work.
Let us hope, however, that some of our simpler forms of recreation may be permitted to survive at least for our time. Books remain, and we may be thankful for the stock we already possess. Reading offers the most available means of recreation.
Dean Hook's practice in this respect also is worthy of adoption. He tells us himself that he always had a novel in hand.
It lasted him a long time, "but when a man has much to do a little time thus spent does the mind good." Books, however, are not the only means of recreation. As Butler tells us, "when taken indiscriminately they are no cure for the diseases and afflictions of the mind.
There is a world of science necessary in the taking of them. I have known some men in great sorrow try to read a novel or the last light book in fashion. One night as well take a rose-draught for the plague. Light reading does not do when the heart is really heavy." By all means let the recreation be conformable to the tastes of the individual and adapted to his condition. When a man over sixty, who has led a sedentary life, suddenly and vehemently takes to tripping he may feel pretty sure that he has failed to catch the meaning of the term "recreation," and that a very different pursuit will certainly develop itself. — Fortnightly Review.

FORGOT HIMSELF.

The Difference Between Theoretical Knowledge and Practical Efficiency.

The adage, "It's easier said than done," is only a variation on what we are constantly observing in life of the difference between theory and practice.
We may be fully equipped with a theory, and ever ready gladly to expound it, though when the occasion arises for putting it into practice we forget all about it.

The teacher of chemistry in a large public school was speaking to his class of the properties of a particular acid.
In one hand he held a glass vessel filled with the acid in question; in the other he held a stick of chalk with which he had been writing a chemical formula on the blackboard.

"By the way," he said, addressing his class, "I may remark here, that should any of you by accident spill any of this acid on your hands, I should advise you not to give way to the very natural impulse to rub it off with your pocket-handkerchief. Take a piece of chalk instead and rub it over the wet surface, and the chalk will neutralize the effects of the acid."

Just then, by an accidental movement, he spilled the acid on his own hand.
Quick as a shot he dropped the piece of chalk which he held in his hand, pulled out his pocket-handkerchief and began rubbing the injured hand vigorously.
Everybody who was present laughed at this unexpected application of theoretical knowledge; and after a bewildered glance round the room the teacher laughed too. The demonstration of the difference between theoretical knowledge and practical efficiency was complete.

The body of Dr. Dio Lewis, of New York, was cremated and the ashes buried.

There will be hardly enough opposition to make a respectable minority.

Persuasive promises, direful threats and piteous pleas for procrastination all come too late. Forbearance has ceased to be a virtue and the people are determined to act, and act at once.

"When self the trembling balance shakes, 'tis rarely well adjusted." The officials of the L. & N. may be sincere when they tell us to vote against another railroad, but sensible men can't help but have doubts on the subject.

The city of Vancouver, British Columbia, was destroyed by fire Sunday. Only four houses were left standing. The loss was $500,000, with but $150,000 insurance. Fifty lives were also lost. Five hundred houses were burned.

The proposition of the L. & N. people to supply us with coal at 8 cents now, is a virtual confession that they have been extorting from 3 to 5 cents on the bushel from us for years. And yet they tell us to wait awhile longer and they will do something for us.

In Ohio county, John Hunter, a negro, charged with stealing $13, was tried and convicted, and as he had served three terms in the penitentiary before, the jury gave him the full benefit of the law, and fixed the punishment at life imprisonment.

The friends of Gen. Wolford are grooming him for Lieutenant Governor. They say that if Buckner and Wolford should be nominated for Governor and Lieutenant Governor the "Gray and Blue" would be harmoniously blended and two good men put on the ticket.

Mr. W. T. Tevis, of Richmond, representative from Madison county in the late Legislature, was married yesterday at Havesville, to Miss Lella Bush, daughter of Mr. R. Y. Bush. The match was made during the session of the legislature, while Miss Bush was visiting in Frankfort. The bride is pretty and accomplished and is about 20 years of age. The groom is a wealthy bachelor of 40 odd.

When approached with a proposition which amounted indirectly to a pecuniary transaction in the event he opposed the L. & C. proposition, a leading colored citizen refused to entertain the offer, but declared that his interests were identified with the interests of Hopkinsville and that he preferred to rise or fall with the city rather than oppose a measure that promised relief to the people. This patriotic sentiment is worthy the emulation of every man who has the welfare of our city at heart.

Coupled with the somewhat selective proposition of the L. & N. Railroad company that they will build and operate a branch road to Newstead when they get the I. & T. in hand, is the threat that if Hopkinsville dares to adopt a measure that will give her people a competing outlet, she will discriminate in favor of Clarksville and use the I. & T. to pull down the trade of Hopkinsville. And this is the corporation which out of pure disinterested friendship sends three high officials here to instruct our benighted citizens how to manage their local affairs. Ye gods and little fishes!

First Reception of President Cleveland and Brides.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—The White House never presented a more brilliant spectacle than to-night on the occasion of the first official reception given by the President and Mrs. Cleveland. The decorations were on the same grand scale as at the President's wedding. The guests began to arrive shortly before 9 o'clock, and soon the house was crowded with ladies and gentlemen awaiting the coming of the receiving party.

The signal that the President and Mrs. Cleveland were ready was given promptly on time and the Marine Band, which was stationed in the main vestibule, struck up the air "Hail to the Chief." The receiving party then descended from the upper portion of the house to the Blue parlor in the following order: The President and Mrs. Cleveland, Secretary and Mrs. Whitney, Postmaster General and Mrs. Vilas, Colonel and Mrs. Lamont. They ranged themselves in a semi-circle in the Blue parlor, with the President first, then Mrs. Cleveland and Mrs. Endicott, Mrs. Whitney and Mrs. Vilas in the order named.

Mrs. Cleveland was attired in her wedding dress, an ivory satin. The waist, however, was slightly changed, being pointed back and front with out sleeves. She wore white silk gauntlet mitts. Her only ornaments were the diamond necklace, the wedding gift of the President, and a magnificent bouquet of white roses worn at the corsage. Mrs. Cleveland's hair was dressed in Grecian coils and the charming simplicity of her whole attire only served to show to great advantage the dignity of her carriage and the graceful poise of her figure. She had a smile for every one and a word for many, and her winsome manner captivated all.

The Diplomatic Corps were the first to be presented lead by the dean Mr. Preston, minister of Hayti, and Mrs. Preston. All the legations were represented by their ministers or attaches.

A general reception of all the other invited guests then followed without any particular order of precedence.

Col. Wilson, of the army, made the presentation to the President, and Mr. D. I. Wilson, of the navy, the presentation to Mrs. Cleveland. The reception was one of the largest ever given at the White-house, there being not less than 2,000 guests present. The reception closed at about 10:45 and President and Mrs. Cleveland, after a promenade through the various rooms, retired, accompanied by the Cabinet officers and their wives, to partake of a collation spread in one of the private apartments of the mansion.

Maj. Gordon Submits His Proposition to the Railroad Committee.

CLARKSVILLE, TENN., June 16.—(Special.)—Maj. Gordon called the railroad committee together and submitted a proposition from the West Tennessee & Kentucky Railway Company, a new organization formed under the charter granted by the last Kentucky Legislature. The company has leased the L. A. & T. Road and proposes to complete the line to Cerulean Springs and build the seven-mile line to Princeton, under a new charter, on condition that subscribers sign the contract to release all claims of stock and bonds against the L. A. & T., transferring the same to the West Tennessee & Kentucky Company, when the line is completed to Princeton, making it an independent road operated under one system. The road is to be completed by the 15th of December, or the contract is void. It also pays the interest on the bonds due July 1. Maj. Gordon, Col. Taylor, of Alabama, and other wealthy gentlemen compose the new company. Clarksville is to have six of the eleven directors. E. C. Gordon, H. C. Merritt, John Pettus, R. W. Roach, John Hurst, L. B. Simms, Dr. Hugh McNaught, C. C. Harris, W. S. Gordon and W. T. Mulligan compose the directory.

Fourteen subscribers were present representing $30,000, and signed the agreement and it was believed that every subscriber will sign to secure the competing outlet.

The prospect is that Clarksville will have an independent road connecting with the Chesapeake & Ohio, the road that is giving Memphis a boom, by the 15th of December, and Nashville will be under the necessity of building a new independent line to Clarksville.

King Ludwig Commits Suicide.

MEXICO, June 11.—Ludwig, who was recently deposed from the Bavarian throne, committed suicide at 6 o'clock yesterday evening. He had got out for a promenade in the park of the Berg Castle, accompanied by Dr. Gudden, his physician. The insane King suddenly threw himself into Starnberg lake, and was drowned. The physician jumped into the water to rescue the King and was also drowned.

The Stanton Journal says the tallest man in Powell county is 6 feet 4 inches. There are several citizens in Christian who can almost "climb" that fellow.

KENTUCKY KNOWLEDGE.

Two small postmasters fell to Kentucky's lot Monday.

Central University, Danville, turned out 13 graduates this year.

Christian Jensen, a 10 year-old boy at Bowling Green, was drowned while bathing.

At Beattyville, J. C. Lovelace shot and mortally wounded Crit. Childs Sunday evening.

Near Monticello Shelby Gregory was shot and killed by Wm. Sloan in a drunken brawl.

Tom Harrison, col., was drowned while swimming in a creek near Russellville, Monday.

Virgil Grimes committed suicide by hanging in Logan county. He had been a patient in the asylum here.

In a hot-hot municipal contest Jno. W. Pant, Dem., was elected mayor of Mt. Sterling over D. D. Hurst, Rep., by 26 majority.

Clark Dickison was arrested at High Grove Monday charged with the murder of Abner Williams in Louisville May 31, 1881.

Wm. Willson, aged 19, has been arrested in Scott county charged with the seduction of Ada Kirkpatrick, aged 12. Under an act passed by the last Legislature seduction of a girl of that age is made a felony punishable by confinement in the penitentiary. Willson claims that they were married at Williamstown, Grant county.

Saved His Life.

Mr. D. I. Wilcoxson, of Horse Cave, Ky., says he was, for many years, badly afflicted with this disease, also Diabetes; the pains were almost insupportable and would sometimes almost throw him into convulsions. He tried Electric Bitters and got relief from first bottle and after taking six bottles, was entirely cured and gained in flesh and color. He says he positively believes he would have died, had it not been for the relief afforded by Electric Bitters. Sold at fifty cents a bottle by J. R. Armstrong.

MACEDONIA, KY.

June 14, 1886.

The late wet weather has put our farmers behind with their work.

A good deal of tobacco has been set during the late rains, but they are not due yet.

Mr. C. M. Day, the popular Democratic candidate for Circuit Clerk, was in this part of the bush, Friday. There is at least one strike that would meet the approval of the public, that is for the railroads to strike for employees with more brain and less check.

Mr. J. D. Collins, of this vicinity, is pondering over the old problem, "2 from 2 and 4 remains." It's a fine specimen of the masculine gender and tipped the beam at 9 pounds.

Last Monday Messrs. Willie Franklin and Frank Butler, of the vicinity of Craney's school house, went to Fields Blainhard, across a swollen stream; on their return Franklin commenced trying to revolve an old pistol, which he had in his hand, when his hand slipped off the hammer sending a ball through Butler's body, entering about mid-stomach and lodging near the navel. It is thought that Butler will die.

ROUCHER AND READY.

Application for aid was made to the L. & N. R. R. by the friends of free turnpikes; it was argued that by extending these roads to Lafayette, Newstead, Abbe's Shop, Bellevue, etc., tobacco would have been brought to Hopkinsville from the Cumberland River. The application was refused on the ground that it would be discriminating against Clarksville and in favor of Hopkinsville, two points similarly situated on the L. & N. R. R. Now the L. & N. has $300,000 in the L. A. & T. and is taking tobacco out of Hopkinsville's territory at rates which are merely nominal. "Consistency thou art a jewel!"

Ice from the northern lakes is brought here at such a low rate that it can be sold as cheap or cheaper than it can be made in the city. A high rate on ice, which is a luxury, would protect a home industry and stop the importing of ice altogether and thereby lessen the daily revenue of the L. & N. to that extent. But coal is a necessity and there are no coal mines in the city to make competition, therefore they give us a low rate on ice and increase the rate on coal at their own sweet will.

Church Services.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH.
 Preaching Lord's Day at 10:45 A. M., and 8 P. M., by the pastor, L. W. Welsh. Good music and short sermons, and a cordial welcome to every one.

HERE AND THERE.

Capt. M. H. Green has returned to his train on the through run.
 The elm tree at the City Bank corner, which has escaped two fires, has been cut down.
 Young man, if your father opposes the railroad respect his opinion but kill his vote.
 There will be a sacramental service at the Methodist church Sunday morning, conducted by Rev. R. F. Hayes.
 There is nothing to talk about these dull times excepting the new railroad project and now and then a little politics.
 Bishop Isaac Layne, of the C. M. E. Church, will preach at the Colored Methodist Church next Tuesday night, the 22nd inst.
 We learn from a tobacco shipper that the rate on tobacco is 40 cents from here to Evansville and 20 cents from Evansville to New York.
 The young gentlemen of the city gave a pleasant dance at Howe's Hall Monday night. The music was made by an Italian band of three pieces.
 A car-load of coal from Hopkinsville costs our dealers about $24 and they pay the L. & N. Railroad about $18 for hauling it thirty miles.
 We are informed by a grain dealer that the rate on wheat from Detroit Mich., to Nashville, Tenn., and from Hopkinsville to Nashville is just the same—18 cents.
 Mike Pascicelli's Italian band, of three pieces, has been employed for the season at Cerulean Springs. They make splendid music and will be there constantly on and after the occasion of the opening ball.
 Fonks & Son handle the Central City coal, mined in an adjoining county. The coal costs them $20 a car and the freight $25. Their freights, who are informed, have been increased 25 per cent. within the last 30 days.
 The Mammoth Cave excursion party will not leave next Wednesday as advertised. The recent heavy rains have rendered it impossible to go both routes in the cave, and hence the excursion will be indefinitely postponed.
 Wm. Evans, the colored driver for Livy Luckner's brain new carriage, says he can now offer the riding public the best rig in the city, and all orders to meet trains or to go to any part of the city will receive his prompt attention.
 We were shown this week a bill of goods received from Louisville June 10, by one of our merchants. The goods cost $51.99 and the freight was $11.48. And yet we are advised to "let well enough alone" and wait for something to turn up.
 The Christian Women's Charity Association will meet at the Presbyterian church on 9th St., at 4 o'clock, P. M., Wednesday the 23rd of June. Business of great importance is to come up before the meeting and a full attendance is desired.
 C. H. Brackett, General Agent, Empire Drill Co., Shortsville, N. Y., was in the city Wednesday. The company's distributing office has been changed from Louisville to this place. Messrs. L. G. Williams & Co. are the local and distributing agents and will have several car loads of these drills on hand next week.
 The people are aroused and it is too late to sing the siren song of procrastination. Hopkinsville has not only been required to lay golden eggs, but even her feathers have been picked off. Such treatment has not exactly killed the goose that laid the eggs, but it has caused a tremendous fluttering in the poultry yard.
 Last Sunday was "children's day" at the First Presbyterian Church. The services in the evening were designed especially for the "Willing Workers," the children's mission society of the church, which is supporting a little Indian boy, who is a handsome man was contributed by the congregation.
 Mr. E. W. Henderson has had his losses by the fire of the 6th settled. The agency of Long, Garnett & Co. paid him $4,000; that of J. W. McPherson $4,000 and Winfree & Kelly's $1,000. The first named agency also adjusted the damages to the 7th St. building at $76. Messrs. Jones & Co. were paid $38 damages on stock. The City Bank adjusted its damages at $235.
 In our columns this week will be found an advertisement of the Louisville, New Albany and Chicago R. R., better known as the Moon Route. Those who wish to travel north toward Chicago, or points east and west from that city, could not secure more comfort or make a more direct run than to go by this route. Passengers can leave this city or surrounding points by the famous L. & N., which connects with the Louisville, New Albany and Chicago, which takes you north without delay. For particulars address the gentlemanly District P. A., H. A. Hathaway, 227 Fourth Ave., Louisville, Ky.
 The A. J. Kenner homestead at Fairview, upon which was situated the house in which Jefferson Davis was born, was recently bought by Mr. Davis and the lot donated to the Bethel Baptist Church. The house was photographed before it was torn down and the pictures are being sold at fifty cents each. A fine church will be built on the historic spot. It will be of a modern plan of architecture and will be an ornament to Fairview. There will be a tablet of Tennessee granite in the walls, with an inscription showing by whom the donation was made. Mr. Davis is expected to be present and deliver an address when the new church is dedicated in September.

Railroad Rally To-Night.

Public Speaking At The Court House—Music By The Band—Come Everybody.
 A caucus of the friends of the L. & N. Railroad was held Monday night and it was resolved to make an open and aggressive fight for home interests and in order that the proposition might be thoroughly understood by all a meeting was announced for to-night, when the question will be fully discussed. The following circular was issued Tuesday afternoon:
 A Grand Railroad Rally will be held at the Court House Friday evening at 8 o'clock, to which every voter in Hopkinsville is invited. If you are opposed to the new road come and hear the subject discussed. If you are in favor of it come and help to convince others that they will not make a mistake in voting and working for the proposition. Its enemies are on the ground and have declared war against us. Shall we tamely submit? What right have strangers to come among us and tell us how to vote? Why this disinterested friendship? Let this convince all that we are on the right track to obtain relief. Let every citizen who has home interests at heart put his shoulder to the wheel and work for the enterprise that assures relief. Heed not the seductive promises of interested parties. The past shows what we have to expect in the future. The prosperity of Hopkinsville is trembling in the balance and every voter should take a stand.
 The meeting Friday night is for all voters to attend. Opponents of the road are especially invited to be on hand and hear the question discussed in all its bearings. Every voter should inform himself and let if any can object to the proposition. The pailty sum of $75,000 is nothing when the welfare of our city is at stake. Is it not better to take ourselves than to pay tribute to a monopoly that is crushing us into the earth?
 The circular also contained Gen. Echols' letter to Judge Landes, published in a recent issue, and the following:
 At a meeting of the Directors of the L. & N. Railroad Company held at the office of the President on Monday, June 14th, 1896, there were present: J. I. Landes, President, with W. J. Withers, Lucian Jones, W. G. Wheeler and H. G. Abernathy, Directors.
 W. G. Wheeler offered the following Resolution which was unanimously adopted:
 "Whereas, It has been objected that it is the purpose of this Directory to use the $75,000, a part of the city of Hopkinsville to aid in the construction of the L. & N. Railroad, in building a road that will not secure to Hopkinsville competitive rates; therefore, Resolved, That it is the purpose of this Directory to use said amount only in the securing of a branch road to connect with the C. O. & S. W. Railroad, and to be operated only in connection with said C. O. & S. W. Road. And the Directors is hereby pledged to make no contract for the construction or operation of said road that will not secure such competition and be satisfactory to the people of Hopkinsville."
 J. I. Landes, Pres.
 A. H. Clark, Sec.
 This band bill created the wildest excitement on the streets. People would talk or think of nothing but the L. & N. Railroad and the audacity of its opponents. It was known that three high officials of the L. & N. were in the city working against the proposition and this fact caused many who were indifferent to come out as active supporters of the proposition, while a number of influential citizens who opposed the measure changed over and are now among its most earnest advocates. It was perfectly plain to all that if it was worth the while of the L. & N. people to defeat the proposition it was worth the while of the citizens of Hopkinsville to adopt it. Many of the business men were exasperated beyond measure at the interference of outside parties in a purely local matter, and the sentiment soon became so unanimous in favor of the proposition that it is now evident to all that the majority in its favor will be overwhelming. The principal argument of the L. & N. officials is that that corporation will own the I. A. & T. by fall, and that they will then make the most favorable terms with Hopkinsville and help to build a branch road to Newstead. As we already have one connection with the L. & N., the people almost with one voice reject this offer which comes at such a late day, and will see that this opportunity to get a competing line be not allowed to pass unimproved.
 Dropped Dead.
 Mr. Walker Williams, of the tobacco warehouse firm of Parrish, Buckner & Co., Clarksville, dropped dead of apoplexy Tuesday morning, at his residence at Ringgold, Tenn. Mr. Williams was well known in this city, where he was universally respected for his noble and unassuming traits of character. He was in the prime of life, and his unexpected death was a great shock to his many friends.
 Although the opening ball, will not take place till July 2nd, Cerulean Springs is now open for guests, and Messrs. McCarty and Burnett will leave nothing undone to add to the pleasure and comfort of the guests. A good season is predicted this summer and all those who intend spending some time resting from the business cares and household duties, should consider the many advantages Cerulean offers before making their decisions.

Missionary Meeting.

Delegates from seven out of the eight churches that compose the Seventh Circle of Bethel Association met at Concord Church, on Saturday, June 12, and Sunday June 13. After hearing reports from the churches, addresses were made on several subjects connected with the great missionary work. J. T. Barrow made an address on the relation of Foreign Missions. S. C. Dorris read a paper on Ministerial Education. J. N. Presbridge, after reading a letter from Missionary Eager, describing his visit to the Island of Santhia, gave an account of the encouraging labors of the missionaries, Powell and Diaz in Mexico and Cuba. J. C. Spurrill, W. H. Boyd and A. C. Dorris, described several regions within the bounds of Bethel Association as almost destitute of the advantages of public worship. A. F. Williams made an address on the relation of Baptists to the work of Foreign Missions. J. T. Dagg spoke of colportage as an efficient means of preaching the gospel. A. Malone called special attention to the obligation of Baptists to this colportage work.
 By a unanimous vote, the delegates present expressed this hearty approval of the Circle of promoting Mission work.
 Moderator, J. W. Rust read a list of appointments for the next meeting which is to be held at West Mt. Zion Church on Saturday before the 2nd Sunday in August.
 Death of Mrs. J. W. I. Smith.
 Mrs. Rosa Smith, wife of Mr. J. W. I. Smith, the local agent of the L. & N. Railroad, died yesterday morning at 9:40 o'clock. She was stricken with paralysis one week before and remained helpless and unconscious up to the time of her death. She was in the 49th year of her age and no better or kinder woman ever lived in this community. She was ever ready to help the sick and minister to the distressed; her gentle care and loving attention were always sought by her neighbors in times of affliction and she never tired of aiding them to the fullest extent with her kind ministrations. She possessed an exceedingly amiable and gentle disposition and no harsh word was ever heard to escape her lips. As a wife and mother for 30 years she performed well her part; as a Christian she was an ornament to the religion she professed, and as a neighbor she enjoyed the love and esteem of all with whom she came in contact. She died peacefully and calmly, surrounded by sorrowing relatives and friends.
 She was a member of the Methodist church and her funeral will be preached at the Methodist church at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Interment in the city cemetery.
 Prostrated by Heat.
 Mr. Robt. A. Burnett, Jr., was prostrated by heat in the ball-room, in Howe's Hall, about 1 o'clock Monday night. He had not been standing enough to cause the stroke from over-exertion. He had been sitting in the window for nearly an hour previous to 1 o'clock, when he became so hot and stopped, saying he felt sick. Almost immediately he fell limp and lifeless into the arms of a young man who was by his side. Drs. Seagrant and Bell worked with him until 7 o'clock, a. m., before he regained consciousness. He was very sick all day Tuesday but by evening he was able to be moved to his boarding house on a cot. His condition is no longer considered dangerous and he will probably be able to resume business soon. Mr. Burnett was similarly prostrated during the big fire at Cadiz about two years ago. He has for several months been living in this city and filling a position as salesman in Jones & Co.'s store. He is a son of Senator R. A. Burnett, of Cadiz, and is a most estimable and highly respected young gentleman.
 Mrs. Tyler Dead.
 Mrs. Lizzie Moore Tyler, wife of Judge Jno. D. Tyler, died yesterday morning at 9:10 o'clock at the family residence on Walnut street, after a long and painful illness. She was a consistent member of the Presbyterian church. Her funeral will be preached to-day, Interment at the City Cemetery. Deceased was a most estimable lady, whose favorable traits of character endeared her to all who knew her.
